

TWO SHOT IN BUFFALO RIOT AS STRIKERS MOB TOLLERS

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Two men were shot, several beaten, and more than a hundred revolver shots were fired near the Lackawanna Steel plant this morning, when a mob attacked a Buffalo and Lake Erie traction car en route to the steel plant with working employees of the company.

The riot followed breaking up of a crowd of 500 men earlier in the day.

STRIKERS TO MARCH AND DEFY WOOD

GARY, Ind., Oct. 7.—More than 5,000 striking steel workers and sympathizers are preparing to hold a mass meeting and parade late today in defiance of orders issued by Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, in charge of Federal troops here on strike duty.

Major General Wood, on placing the city under martial law last night, issued strict orders that no parades or mass meetings would be countenanced. He also ordered the arrest of all persons wearing the uniform of the United States army who are not engaged in actual military details.

PITTSBURGH MILLS SEE STRIKE ENDING

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 7.—The steel workers' strike, now in its third week, appeared to be wearing itself out in the Pittsburgh district. Every mill of importance here claimed additional man power and production gains today. Several mills, closed since the strike was called September 22, resumed operations under hand-mills.

Strike leaders maintained their forces were increasing and asserted they had made a net gain of 17,000 men here since the strike call was issued. Strike headquarters' latest figures declared 174,500 men on strike, a gain of 88,500 since September 22.

Mills in Monaca and Donora were preparing for resumption of work. Carnegie steel mills, closed since the strike was called, resumed operations today and claim so far as they are concerned the strike is over. At Clairton another furnace was fired.

VIOLENT STORM IS MOVING EASTWARD

Committee On Rules Of Great Industrial Conference

Group which will determine points of order at round table conference of capital and labor. Left to right—G. H. Oyster, stenographer; H. A. Wheeler, T. C. Atkeson, T. L. Chadbourne, secretary of the committee; W. G. Lee, president Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; E. Farnum Green, Bernard Baruch, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., M. Woll, and W. D. Mahon, chairman.

CONFERENCE FACES RUPTURE OF RULES

rules. Thomas L. Chadbourne made a brief reply to the Spargo attack, saying that if closure in some form or another were adopted the conference would merely resolve itself into a big debating society.

"The world from the White House this morning is so cheering that it may be possible for the President to appear before the conference close," said Secretary Lane in a notable opening address. "You may hear directly from him and receive the benefit of his guidance."

"Folks who talk about revolution forget that we have had one revolution, which placed sovereign power in the hands of the people. There are some who say that the problem of capital and labor is insoluble. I do not believe that the constructive capacity of the American people is unequal to this task, great as it is. This conference is the most important extra-legal body that has been called in our time. It is bound to be a success."

Declaration of Dependence.

"We shall draft here, gentlemen, a declaration of dependence, not a declaration of independence. We shall prove here that men do live in each other's pockets."

"This conference will succeed because it meets not in a spirit of oratory, but in the spirit of humility. Do you know of any way in which capital and labor can be brought together to work and live in harmony? Is there any industry any place where such conditions prevail?"

"Ten gentlemen represent millions of dollars. You represent millions of men. Do you know where harmonious conditions prevail, and how these conditions are brought to prevail over all this country?"

"This, gentlemen, is the purpose of this conference as I see it."

There is but one ever-lord in this country. It is neither capital nor labor. It is the people of the United States."

Counselor and Adviser.

Secretary of Labor Wilson was asked by unanimous vote to attend the conference in the role of counselor and adviser, after Gavriel McNabb, of San Francisco, had stated that he had "one more than any other one man" to keep peace between capital and labor in the United States. Samuel Gompers and Secretary Lane also paid a tribute to Wilson.

It was reported that the rules committee plans to prevent discussion of the issues of the strike in the conference, at least until the end of the conference, and the remarks of John Spargo are regarded as a prelude to the expression of emphatic individual opinion from this time forward.

Any effort to sidetrack discussion of the steel strike, even if agreed to by the labor representatives, probably will result in failure, because certain delegates are determined to get it before the conference.

Will War on Profitteering.

Reports that the four brotherhoods had come into the conference only after the American Federation of Labor had agreed to support the Plumb plan were current today, but could not be confirmed.

The labor delegation, including the representatives of the four railroad brotherhoods, announced before it went to the conference today that it would demand action looking to a quick end to profiteering, and would fight any move by the employers present to increase wages as responsible for the high cost of living.

When asked what solution to the high cost of living problem the labor representatives would present at the conference, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said:

"The first thing to do, I should say, is to end profiteering. Labor demands a real relief from profiteering. It demands relief of the profiteers, and it demands relief of the workers. With ample reason and proof it places the blame for the false situation, in which this nation and the world find themselves squarely upon those who are masters of the productive machinery of the world."

"The public has been given a discolored view of the high cost of living situation. Two false statements have been made: one that increases in wages are necessarily followed by increases in prices; the other, that there has been under-production of

Sidelights On Round Table Conference

To Puller E. Calloway, of La Grange, Ga., fell the honor of first addressing the chair and making the first motion of the round table industrial conference. At the invitation of Secretary Wilson, temporary chairman, Delegate Calloway moved the appointment of the organization committee. The motion carried.

Four women delegates voted, but kept complete silence during discussions. They are Miss Ida Tarbell, Miss Vivian Wald, Miss Gertrude Barnum, and Mrs. Sara Conboy. All were photographed.

The conference personnel includes sixty-two delegates, one chairman, and eighty-three newspaper writers. Officials have not concluded their count of messengers and telegraph operators assisting news writers.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., astonished many spectators who never before had seen him. Several said he seemed "very youthful." Rockefeller wore a purple bow tie.

Judge Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, sat near Rockefeller. The only part he took in the opening session was saying "aye" when he voted.

Miss Ida Tarbell wore a blue turban hat, feathered, blue tailored suit, and gold-rimmed nose glasses.

"PAX" inscribed in capitals, appears at each of the four corners of the Hall of the Americas in the Pan-American Union building, where the conference meets.

States can be settled by adoption of the Whitley councils, which have proved to great a success in Great Britain.

Farmers Take Back Seats.

In the employers' group at the conference there are no outstanding figures, with the exception of Homer Ferguson, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Perhaps the most subdued and unassuming group represented in the conference are the farmers, who are dissatisfied because they are granted only three delegates. They declare they are the most important single producing group in the country, and deserve as large a representation as any other group.

Mr. Gompers has a corps of able assistants constantly around him. They include W. D. Mahon, head of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees, and William F. Johnston, of the machinists.

Johnston is a vigorous advocate of labor's rights, as outlined in the peace pact. Back of the rail, without voice, is the conference cannot make progress until it recognizes the three cardinal tenets of the covenant—collective bargaining, industrial recognition, the living wage and the eight-hour day.

Fight For Bargain Rights.

"The whole cause of labor centers about collective bargaining," he states. "How can the nation hope to have industrial peace when an industrial employer, like Gary, refuses to recognize the simplest and most fundamental labor principle? There will be no compromise on this principle. Labor will bargain collectively, or it will not bargain at all. It will fight, and fight with all its power."

"The first thing the conference will have to do is to find out where the employers stand on the labor covenant. If they refuse to recognize it, our appeal to the nation is easy. Our case peace, commerce and civilization. I do not see how this issue in the conference will be avoided or postponed. Labor hesitates to take any action which may seem drastic or ruin the chance of industrial peace, but it cannot countenance any abridgment of its rights."

Want Mine Workers at Confab.

The conference will continue its efforts to bring the United Mine Workers and the carpenters within the scope of the conference. So far there has been no word from the four powerful railroad brotherhoods have determined to stay in the conference for a time at least, so that they can bring forward their own policies regarding railroad nationalization. One of the many projects that will be placed before the conference will be the Plumb plan.

KILLS AMERICAN EAGLE.

DUGUIN, Ill., Oct. 7.—Roy Bechtel, living on a farm in Jackson county, southeast of Duguin, has killed an American eagle measuring five feet five inches from tip to tip. It required five shots to bring it down.

Don't let careless expenditure make a slave of your purse. Buy wisely, and increase your money holdings by investing in W. S. S.

All Trust Chadbourne.

His first assistant, virtually a "floor leader" of the conference, is Thomas L. Chadbourne, counsel of the American Federation of Labor. He is a suave and brilliant, known as a radical and friend of labor among capitalists, but enough of a conservative to hold the confidence of all sides.

Judge Elbert H. Gary sat between Mr. Baruch and Miss Ida M. Tarbell at the opening session. Miss Tarbell is known among her friends as the first big "muck-raker" for it was her "History of the Standard Oil Company," which started the entire wave of corporate investigation in the United States.

There are only two salmon-punch socialists in the conference—John Spargo and Charles Edward Russell. Both of these are conservatives in their own party, and are bitter anti-Bolsheviks. Spargo has bushy hair and dreamy eyes, according to the conventional concept of a socialist; but Russell looks every inch a corporation magnate. Russell believes the labor problem in the United community can be constructed at $1,500 to $2,000 cheaper than the same house would cost to build in any other section of the District of Columbia.

The plans call for 250 homes in the seven blocks.

More than 300 workers at the navy yard have already signed up for homes, as soon as the preliminary plans can be perfected, and others have signified their intention to avail themselves of the opportunity.

J. T. Donnelly, a machinist at the navy yard, told the committee that the construction of 250 homes near the navy yard would insure keeping in service these many skilled workers, who are being engaged during the war. Some of them have been forced to get homes a considerable distance from the yard, and had street car service has made it hard to keep up with their work there.

Congressman Backs Plan.

Congressman Andrews told the committee that the abolition of the Housing Corporation, and disposal of all its assets, would expedite the plan of the Navy Yard workers. He urged that the committee ask the House to speed up passage of the resolution by Congressmen Frank Clark of Florida, which carries such a provision.

George B. Logan, counsel for the Senate subcommittee on Public Buildings and Grounds, explained to the committee the program of development the Housing Corporation undertook at the Navy Yard last year.

The three plans the Navy Yard association seeks to purchase cost the corporation a total of $71,620. The corporation spent approximately $200,000 in developing the three projects. This included $100,000 for grading, which, Mr. Logan said, greatly enhanced the value of the property.

Believes Salvage Slight.

It was the opinion of Mr. Logan that salvage of the fourteen dormitories and cafeterias would not be more than 25 per cent, although the Housing Corporation has contended that it expected to realize 75 per cent.

Members of the committee were of the opinion that the Housing Corporation should be abolished; but Mr. Logan said that would make necessary the organization of another body to dispose of its holdings, and they are distributed from coast to coast.

Mr. Logan brought out the fact that since the armistice was signed, an employee of the corporation had had his salary increased from $5,000 to $12,000 a year. He is listed as an expert on dormitory equipment.

The committee is expected to report a resolution that will satisfy the navy yard workers and serve as an impetus to their plan.

Mr. Alfalfa said that if the plan is a success in Washington, it is intended to make it nation-wide, since the machinists propose to start home-building campaigns in all large industrial centers of the country.

MRS. WANAMAKER IN PERIL BY BOMB

which the box was wrapped was a paper used exclusively in Wanamaker's store, and Kurth afterward confessed that he used this paper to throw suspicion upon some employee of Mr. Wanamaker.

To strengthen this plan Kurth mailed the bomb from the Postoffice Station at No. 132 Fourth avenue, the nearest station to the Wanamaker store. He used a label taken from another package addressed to Mrs. Wanamaker, on which the stamp of the American Express Company appeared. The name of a French firm appears on the postmark box.

At Police Headquarters it was said that Kurth is fifty-three and has a wife and a son nineteen years old. Since Kurth was arrested in the Times last week he has worried a great deal. He said to have confessed after five hours in jail. He told the detectives he decided to sell all on account of his wife and boy. He blamed Mary O'Brien for the loss of his position with the Wanamakers two months ago but insisted that he was sorry he had sent the bomb. He continued to worry and brood, however, until a nervous collapse came yesterday morning and he was removed to Bellevue awaiting from nervous prostration.

ALBERT GETS FIRST SIGHT OF MIDWEST

ON BOARD KING ALBERT'S SPECIAL TRAIN, AMBOY, Ohio, Oct. 7.—King Albert from the windows of his sleeping car, this morning got his first glimpse of the middle West. At midnight his train stopped at Amboy, a siding of the New York Central railroad, ten miles east of Ashland, Ohio.

At 5 o'clock last train resumed its journey, passing through Cleveland on its way to Toledo, the home of Brand Whitlock, American ambassador to Belgium. The King will make a speech from the steps of the public library in Toledo about 1 o'clock immediately en route for Chicago, which he will reach at 8:30 p. m.

At Omaha at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning he will talk from the platform of his car during a fifteen-minute stop, and at Ogden, Utah, another fifteen-minute stop will be made. He will reach Oakland, Cal., Friday at 5:45 p. m., departing an hour later for San Francisco. Then he goes to Santa Barbara, where he and the Queen and the Crown Prince will rest about four days.

Queen Elizabeth is looking forward to the sea bathing at Santa Barbara.

FAIL TO ACT IN RENT GOUGE BILL

No action was taken on the anti-rent profiteering bill for the District of Columbia early today by the House and Senate conferees.

Senator Gronna, who is in charge of the bill, said this morning that he expected an early agreement would be reached under which the measure would be put through the House without further objections. The conferees will get together during the day.

It is necessary in the opinion of Senator Gronna that the word "land" must be stricken from the definition of rental properties, in order to meet the House objection that the period of operation of the law be reduced from three to two years. This latter change was given the approval of other Senators.

PRESS CLUB PARTY FOR "JOE" CANNON

Speaker Gillett and former Speaker Clark will be guests at the Press Club Thursday night to tell the world what they think of "Uncle Joe" Cannon. The members of the club are giving a party for their friend and fellow club member Joseph G. Cannon, and are making it an exclusive club affair, with no guests permitted.

"You've Seen Press Club Night? Other Young Fellows" says the card announcing the event, "you can guess what this one will be. Nick Longworth presides, Speaker Gillett presides, House 1919 fashion. Champ Clark tells his ideas of Joe Cannon. Bill Rodenberg on deck. Uncle Joe will talk at 10. Honey Fitz will sing."

A barrel of cider, guaranteed to be "interesting," has been given the club by one of its farmer members, and will be dispensed by an expert cider man imported for the occasion.

Charles E. Shreve, secretary of the association, in a communication to the members urged that they give the subject of the choice of new officers their earnest and immediate attention.

Charles W. Fairfax, the present president of the association, has received a third party, feeling that others are entitled to the position. The meeting will be followed by a buffet supper.

LET PUBLIC DECIDE STRIKES, HE URGES

A law creating a Federal clearing house for labor disputes, probably will be recommended by the Senate Labor Committee investigating the steel strike, according to members of the committee today.

This is the view favored by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts and other members of the committee, including Chairman Kenyon.

"Under the present form of legislation to prevent a suspension of the steel strike will result," Walsh said today. "Government machinery ought to be devised to act as a clearing house for industrial disputes. Let the commission, or whatever body is set up, send its own investigators to the scene, and make a report on the facts as it finds them. What is the public judge who is in the wrong?"

Legislation should go no further than this at the present, Senator Walsh said in opposing compulsory arbitration.

"You can never pass a law for compulsory arbitration," he declared. "That would take the right to strike from labor. This is labor's only weapon, and it will not be given up without a fight. Compulsory arbitration, in which the strike would only result in a few months' delay until after a conference, would only result in a prolonged strike. Then the employer could simply lock back and challenge labor to a final fight, the employer being unable to save up against a long period of idleness."

The committee is hopeful of getting to Pittsburgh this week, and the date is not settled pending an agreement regarding treaty votes. After the Pittsburgh trip the committee will prepare a report setting forth the facts as it finds them.

KILLED BY CAR, OWN FAULT SAYS JURY

That the death of James Smith, colored, who died at the Emergency Hospital on Sunday as the result of injuries received when he was struck by a street car of the Capital Traction Company at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest on September 25 last, was due to his own carelessness was the belief of a coroner's jury at the inquest yesterday afternoon.

Smith was struck by the car while crossing the street, and it was several hours later that he was identified by his brother.

A wagon, driven by Edward Evans, 38 Massachusetts avenue northwest, was struck by an automobile operated by Morton Lloyd, 5500 Colorado avenue, at Fourteenth street and Park road yesterday. Evans was thrown from the wagon and received injuries on the right leg.

Lloyd, control of his automobile, was arrested by the police. Charles Herbert Beavers, 710 Tenth street northwest, was slightly injured last night when the machine crashed into a building at Fourteenth and D streets northwest. Damage to the automobile is estimated at $200.

DISTRICT NEEDS 50 MEN 2 WEEKS TO TAKE CENSUS

Census takers are needed in the District for two weeks. Robert E. Mattingly, supervisor of the census for Washington, has announced. The rate of work will be about one-tenth as against 70 a month in 1910.

The work will begin January 2, 1920, and applicants for these positions should appear at the U. S. Census Bureau before October 15. Very few men are needed.
